Senator Elkins.

Senator Elkins will be as much of a target in this campaign as any of the candidates on the Republican state ticket. If the Democratic speakers, and more especially the Democratic press were fairer in their judgments, in other words, if they stuck to facts it would be a pleasanter campaign all around, but nothing in the nature of fairness can be expected from these quarters we must be prepared to hear slander upor slander and deception upon misrepre sentation. That Senator Elkins has filled the high position to which he was elected with dignity and honor; that he has been a force and a power in the Inited States senate; that he has at all times been the representative of all the people in West Virginia; that he has ever been watchful of the interests and zeal ous in the advancement and develop ment of the state cannot be dealed by his most bitter political enemy or per sonal foe. Then why change a tried and true servant of the people for an experiment? Why exchange a man who wields the greatest influence in the highest councils of the nation and who is respected in the financial and commercial marts of the large centers of population in the country, for one who is untried, lacks experience and whose political methods would make those in places of influence look upon him ask-

No greater disaster could befall this state than the election of a Democratic legislature and the resultant selection of the unscrupulous boss of that ballo debauching party, the Hon. John T. Another Paramount Issue

In searching for paramount issues how would the protective tariff suit the Democrats? It is the same old party of free trade, ruined industries, smokeless furnace stacks, hunger and distress While all this cant is going on about the danger of the country from an imperial ruler, it is well to call attention to a real danger, the return to power of the despot of Free Trade, dethroned in 1896. Here is threatened imperialism—the im perialism of obstinacy, an imperialism that is imperialistic beyond a degree o any other known monarchism. It crushes, destroys, devastates and blights everything over which it exerts its baneful sway. On the other hand we know of the persistent blessings of protection—a protection that has raised us to the very topmost heights of prosperity, abundance at home and commercial supremacy abroad. This being acomplished by the wise and ben eficent policies of the Republican party. that is the party to keep in power. Democratic party is never happier than when the country is in distress. It obstinately ignores present blessings and spends its time in gloating over conjectural ilis. It worships Misanthropy and deifies Pessimism. That is the par ty to destroy.

In this connection the Philadelphia nent remarks, as follows:

In its efforts to expand its infant industries the South still sileks to the stilly idea the south still sileks to the stilly idea the still still sileks to the stilly idea the still sileks to the still sileks and sileks and still sileks and si

Webster Davis Again.

It appears that Webster Davis, being unable to assimilate the truth professes to believe that all statements, except those which he promulgates himself, are but the more assertions of "pald liars," and that the writers are "curs" and other animals of known disrepute The editorial of the Kansas City Jour-nal, which the Intelligencer printed the morning of the evening he made his speech at Winseling Park, seems to have penetrated his pachydermous cuticle Else why is he raving so much about it? The Intelligencer in the same issue printed a very pungent brochure from the St. Louis Globe-Democrat, detailing Mr. Davis' varied record in this vale of tears. These publications are charac terized by Mr. Davis as emanating from "paid liars" and the reputable mediums through which they were given as "vilsewers." Mr. Davis never for a mo-ment pauses in his lava-like flow of vituperation and malignant invective to consider the marked affinity between himself and that historical romancer the late Mr. Ananias. Mr. Davis' epi-thetic agonics of mind do not injure anyone. It is the truth that hurts, and that is what is making hir. Davis show to the public the gaping wounds in his alleged conscience.

In Charleston, Thursday night, he paid his distinguished compliments to the Intelligencer, and, like he did at Wheeling, dared it out to fight. Mr. Davis is an eloquent fighter, with his mouth. As a throat clutcher the Intelligencer really stands in awe of his powers. We presume he is now through with this state and he will meander into other pleasant fields and pastures new, and shout for "lib-er-tay" at so much per clutch. Having heard him and Republicans generally will be glad to know that he is to be actively entropy that he is not be not been as the same of the ready to agree with the Kansas City Journal, which expressed its joy, that the same Democratic divining rod that discovered Bryan had also found Davis.

Before leaving Mr. Davis to the ten-der mercy of others we should like to call his attention to the opinion of Mr. William F. Wappich, a Democratic lawyer of Omaha, Nebraska, who once supported Bryan, but could not swallow the hybrid Kansas City platform, upon which Mr. Davis affects to sit with so much ease and grace. After commending the course of the present administration in its policy toward th

Philippine Islands, Mr. Wappich sald:
"The cant of the Bryan campaign is added to by this man Webster Davis. The idea of such a man going about the country shouting for freedom and liberty! The hypocrisy of Davis is well understood by the people of Kansas City who know him He was elected mayor of Kansas City as the candidate of a well known order whose only excuse for existence was a desire to establish proscription in this country. As mayor of Kansas City he dealed the rights of freedom and liberty to American citizens whose religious faith happened to bring them under the ban of proscription. He is, indeed, a fine specimen to advocate the cause of the Boers, to plead for freedom and liberty in South Africa after denying the same blessings to Americans at home."

A Memorable Event

Never has the civilized world held its breath so long as it did over the situation in Pekin, where the official repre sentatives of the great powers were cooped up in part of the city defending themsalves against the assault of a mob, powerful and murderous, which the Chinese government could not controlor rather professed it could not control. And never did the civilized world breathe with freer breath than when the news was flashed around the globe that Pekin was taken and the legations were safe. If was a most remarkable situation, in which the United States played a most distinguished part, no less renowned in diplomacy than in

The manner in which President Mc-Kinley and his advisers have conducted the negotiations with China has challenged the admiration of the world, and has forced admissions from high official been very sparing in admissions of any kind and of any character that did not place them in an exclusively superior niche.

While the main object of the allied forces has been acomplished, the strained situation is not yet relieved of its tension so far as the responsibility of the Chinese government is concerned. There is yet to be a reckoning with the empire, not only for the murder of the German ambassador, but for the frightful massacre of missionaries. The mission of the United States in China has been stated with great explicitness by the administration. We are not there for conquest, whatever may be the mo tives of the other powers. So long us it is to our interests to have troops on Chinese soil they will be there, and we can trust the future to the wisdom that so far has been flawless.

The Intelligencer yesterday morning realized the fact that Pekin had been captured. The Register printed the news, in a Vienna telegram, the day before.—Register.

What the Register printed was mise, which is as far as its alleged perspicacity ever goes. What the Intelli-gencer printed was fact, which it always deals with.

OUR SENATOR.

Tribute to the Sterling Character of Senator Stephen B. Elkins-Has Been Fair, and Just and is a Credit to the New Dominion.

Inter-Mountain: The political campaign in West Virginia may be said to be fairly open on both sides. The people of Randolph county and this section of the state have more than an ordinary interest in the result. Apart from the great national politics of the Republican party, which have brought prosperity to the state in every direction, the people of Randolph county are specially interested because it is the home of a United States senator, and to some extent this naturally arouses the pride and interest of the people of this county. The fact that Randolph county gives to the state a United States senator attracts attention to the county. It is a matter of just pride people, as it is to the town of Elkins where our senior senator now resides.

The record of Senator Elkins is known to the people of his town and served the state faithfully, ably and well. He has not been as United States senator a bitter partisan in any sense of the word. Any requests made by a Democrat which he could consistently consider and comply with has had prompt and immediate attention. From his standpoint, he has fought for the best interests of the state. He has tried to bring the state into prominence and make known its vast wealth and give it power and influence in the federal government; and to-day the state exerts a strong influence with the executive and in both houses of Congress. It is not too much to say that Senator Elkins' course as a senator has not only been worthy and deserving, but creditable to the state and helpful to it from any standpoint which may be considered. He has advocated protection to coal, lumber and wool; he has stood for sound money, has given special attention to the deepening of our harbors and water-ways so as to increase our commerce; he has fearlessly stood for encouragement, progress and development in the state. He has had large experience, having served in Congress twenty-five years ago; had a place in the cabinet; has been the close friend of the leading men of the country for a quarter of a century and enjoyed their confidence. This experience and knowledge of public affairs stands for something, it is helpful and should be weighed in the balance when the people are reaching a decision as to who shall be the United States senator. The states with the greatest influence in the government have been those who have kept their members of Congress and senators longest in service. Senator Elkins can unquestionably do more good for the state than a man who is entirely without experience or influence at the national capital. The neighbors and friends of Senator Elkins, without distinction of party, in Randolph country in the progress and distinction of party, in Randolph country in the progress and distinction of party, in Randolph country in the progress and distinction of party, in Randolph country in the progress and development in the government has the progress and the national capital. his standpoint, he has fought for the best interests of the state. He has tried at the national capital. The neighbors and friends of Senator Eikins, without distinction of party, in Randolph coun-ty wish him well, and it is believed he will receive the cordial support, not only of the Republicans, but many Demographs.

only of the Sandolph county g up a United States senator to Tay county? Why should John T. McGr to the senate instead of Senator to the senate instead of Senator to the senate instead of Senator and the Sandolph Sandolph Why should Handolph county give up a United States senator to Taylor county? Why should John T. McGraw go to the senate instead of Senator El-kins? This is the question for the people to decide; because it is known that Colonel McGraw is the undisputed leader of his party. The Democratic party obeys the will and wish of McGraw as if it were law. He was the caucus nominee of the Democratic party at the last election of United States senator; a large majority of the Democratic candidates for the legislature are pledged to his support for United States senator, and a majority of the hold-overs are his friends and want him elected. McGraw and his friends try to make it appear, for mere political gain, that there might be some chance for the election of another Democrat, in case the Democrate carry the legislature. This is done for effect. While McGraw is the dictator of his party, there are a great number of Democratis throughout the state who do not believe he is the best man in his party for United States senator. Dismissing from the consideration of the case any party feeling or prejudice whatever, it will be agreed on all sides that Senator Elkins can do more for the state of West Virginia and the town of Elkins than McGraw, and Randolph county should have a special interest in his return to the senate.
